Simultaneous with the aid coming from the different cooperatives in the Region, the electric cooperative, BENECO, operating in Baguio City and Benguet launched the "Pantawid Liwanag Program" where free electricity is being provided to lifeline residential consumers who consumed 30 KWhrs and below. Php 100 discount will be applied on the bills of residential consumers who used 31-100 KWhrs for the month of April. For the month of May, the cooperative will be giving Php 100 discount to residential consumers who used 101-200 KWhrs.

With all the struggles caused by this COVID-19 pandemic, the people in our country are in a better place with the help coming from all sectors. The "bayanihan system" which is part of the Filipino culture is very evident during this time of difficulty. Government, private institutions, and individuals try to respond and the concerted efforts are focused on helping the people survive this situation. The cooperatives as private institutions have been there from the very start, accessing and implementing approaches on how they can be of help to the people. Cooperatives have shared their resources, acting as contributors of money, goods, and even manpower to the government and other institutions that needed it. Hand in hand, the cooperatives are joining forces with all sectors to help everyone survive, leaving no one behind.FRC

Cooperative Relevance: Undying Commitment

We are proud of you, cooperatives! The undying commitment to serve with gladness resonates in all corners. Your existence and initiatives as a peoples' organization has gained attention from national and local officials. Millions of pesos were spent for members and non-members. Serving all people has paved the way for cooperatives to take significant strides that make a difference.

The current pandemic brought out the best practices and application of the universally accepted cooperative principles. The assistance extended to members and communities manifest compassion to mankind.

Accountability was practiced as officers and management struggled to address immediate needs of members and the community they serve. Cooperatives gave grants and donation in the forms of cash or in kind to frontliners ,service providers, community residents and others. Some assistance was coursed through local government units. These actions attested to adherence on the concern for community principle. The gestures of sharing the hard earned resources sealed the integrity of cooperatives and their strong desire to help people regardless of their status in life. The acts indicated reciprocity and fairness, giving back something as a form of thanksgiving to all stakeholders.

The continuing flow of support from cooperatives to members forms part of the cooperative social responsibility. It is an expression of gratitude for the patronage of members who contributed to the generation of statutory funds. Without members' support on the economic endeavors of cooperatives, nothing could have been set up for the different statutory funds. Noteworthy also are the cooperatives' good governance and financial prudence. Hats off to cooperatives that funded their respective statutory funds. Likewise, let this be a lesson learned for those that failed to observe the standards.

True enough, trust surfaced as management and staff agreed to provide help to members and the community. Swift decisions in the disbursement of cooperative funds amazed local leaders as they received assistance without strings attached. Indeed, hope dwells in the cooperatives. Resilient as they are, their offices served the needs of members and communities. Others might have closed operations but I am glad they resumed operations after the declaration of the Bayanihan Act to Heal as One and the issuance of its Implementing Rules and Regulations. I believe that growth and development abound when cooperatives become relevant in their service. Lotes P. Lab-oyan CDA-CAR
