RESEARCH STUDY

Role of Cooperatives in Community Development in Iloilo City

Objectives

To determine the Role of Cooperatives in Community Development in Iloilo City.

Highlights

The most predominant roles of cooperatives in community develoment in Iloilo City as percieved by participants when taken as an entire group and classified according to sex, age, civil status, and annual family income were: "coopertives provide financil assistance for the community", "have concern for their communities", and "can be a good instrument for knowledge multiplication for the members."

Recommendation

- 1. The community must maintain a good relationship with the cooperative. They must be actively participating in the activities of the cooperative located in their area.
- 2. The residents may join in a ccoperative and become members because cooperative could help in improving the community.
- 3. The cooperative members must give their full involvement for the development of their cooperative. They must perform their duties and responsibilities well to make their cooperative a productive one. If the cooperative is running successfully they would be able to help the community.
- 4. Future researchers may use the results of the findings of this study as baseline information in conducting researches related to the role of cooperatives.

Name of Researcher:

Palmares, Allaric Luig B. & Valeriano Elmar Niel B.

Date Conducted/Published: March 2016

School/Institution: West Visayas State University